MR. GREELEY AND REFORM.

Admitting Gen. Grant to be as bad and his administration as corrupt and unprincipled as his enemies represent us are still as a loss to discover how the matter is to be mended by electing a man who receives the sanction, the support and the applause of the late rebel chiefs, their conditions and northern sympathizers, by whom he must be elected, if elected at all. Are we to admit that those who plundered the national treasury, seized the national arms and munitions of war, confiscated the property of loyal citizens, and fought with the ferocity of fiends to destroy the national government now that they are whipped and subjugated, have suddenly become more honest, more loyal, and better qualified to administer the government or to select the men for that purpose than those who periled their lives in a fierce conflict with a bloody and barbarous foe to save the honor, the credit, and the existence of the nation itself? For one, we are not quite prepared for such an admission. If, however, Gen. Grant and his associates are corrupt, they certainly ought to be removed. But where are we to look for the honest loyal, patriotic, pure-minded statesmen to succeed them? Certainly not among the candidates or leaders of the great democratic liberal republican party, having for the most part such antecedents as we have mentioned.

Were pardon to be extended to all the criminals in the various jails and penitentiaries throughout the land, would any one agree that these paroled criminals were more honest and better qualified to administer the laws, or to select men for that purpose, than those who had never been convicted of crime? Certainly not. But how much better are those pardoned rebels, who so venerationally applaud Mr. Greeley, while they continue to pour out their venom against the government, which so magnanimously spared their necks from the halter, which the constitution prescribes for treason. Is it worse to kill an individual than to strike at the life of a nation? Is it worse to rob a bank than to rob a government? Is it worse to steal a horse than to steal a man? Is it worse to plunder a million of roasts than to plunder four millions of people of every right, and crush them to the condition of cattle? Is it worse to engage in a street brawl and knock down than to deluge the land with blood, for the purpose of extending and perpetuating the diabolical institution of slavery? What honest man will make such a concession? Yet these unwhashed rebels are the men with whom Mr. Greeley affiliates for the purpose of reforming the government.
These are the reformers whom he prefers to the loyal republicans, who are so corrupt that his pure mind will no longer allow him to continue in their company. These are the men who have chosen Mr. Greeley to bear their standard of reform, and their standard he consents to carry. Why does not Mr. Greeley go a step further, and insist upon extending amnesty to all our prison convicts that they also may assist him in the work of reform by displacing those who are so corrupt as to build jails and establish criminal courts?
But what kind of reform do these new friends of Mr. Greeley desire? Are they anxious that law should take the supremacy over the pistol and Bowie knife and bludgeon? Do they wish the suppression and punishment of Ku klux bands, church and schoolhouse burners, and negro assassins? Do they desire a system of free schools, where in every child in the land shall be educated and developed to its utmost capacity? Do they favor the education and elevation of the laboring classes to social and political equality with themselves? Do they advocate governmental protection to our various manufactures, arts, and other industries? Are they willing that the blessings of free government should fall alike upon all, without regard to race, sex, creed, color or condition? If so, then God speed them in the work of reform! Should Mr. Greeley be elected will he be permitted to lead in this direction, or be forced into the opposite? "How can a corrupt man bring forth good fruit? Can apples grow on thorns?" or figs on thistles?

But we are told that Mr. Greeley's new friends have accepted the Cincinnati platform. To be sure they have —just as the dying sinner accepted the terms of salvation, with the mental proviso that if he got well his acceptance should pass for nothing. It is easy to make and accept platforms. It is quite as easy to smash them in pieces. Just as the whigs repudiated and spit upon the platform upon which they had previously nominated Gen. Scott.

This is the platform upon which Gen. Grant is represented. But we by no means make this concession as a matter of fact. We never mistake the platform for an angel, nor do we suppose that either he or any of his friends claim his administration to be faultless.
"To err is human." But we presume that for purity and ability, his administration of public affairs will compare favorably with most of his predecessors, and for justice and humanity is scarcely equaled by any. That he is not the monster some would pretend, we have proof as strong as the N. Y.

Tribune itself. That paper, Mr. Greeley's organ, in its issue of June 1, 1871, declares in an article, written probably by Mr. Greeley himself, that "Maybe one of these days, the journalists who made it their particular business to traduce the president, will become discourage at repeated failures, and turn to some more honest pursuit. Gen.
Grant, from the beginning of his career, has been persistently assailed in the most shameful manner, and after every assault his character has shone forth not only untarnished but brighter than before."

If Grant's character stood untarn-ished a little more than a year ago, as the Tribune then affirmed, is it probable that in so short a time he has become as corrupt as that paper now affects to believe. That such a change is possible we certainly can have no doubt, after the notable example set us by Mr. Greeley himself, but with the president such a transformation does not seem probable.
Massillon, August, 1872.

THE LATE DESTRUCTION OF EVERGREENS.

There is much speculation and a great variety of theory in regard to the immediate cause of the recent death of so many evergreens of all sizes and of all degrees of hardness, and in all sorts of localities. Trees of sorts that endure the climate of Labrador and of Norway have succumbed about equally with natives of lower latitudes, and without much respect to age or vigor.
It is as if an unseen axman had, in some invisible manner, chopped off trees here in wanton sportiveness, and left them without apparent marks of his performance. If any have suffered more than others within my observation it has been Irish jumpers. They and other things have perished along side of tender Noisette roses. Japan campanuluses and honeysuckles, and many other things counted as frail, which yet have escaped. It is evident that the cause is to be looked for outside of the trees.

Nor does it depend upon position—according to the old rules or position.
By them we learn that there is danger in sunny exposures during the alternation of early spring. And we know that sudden thawing after hard night freezing, when the structure is full of sap, does scald severely and dis-color sadly, but it does not often kill outright in this savage way. And in this case we have the antagonistic experience of more injury on the shady side of buildings, &c. (on the northwest side), than on the sunny side.

Have the dry, northwest winds, then, done this mischief? No doubt of it.
For all the symptoms indicate that the trees have slowly dried to death, and large plants, most exposed to drying winds, have suffered more than lowly bush, &c., which usually suffer most.
They have dried slowly, & as to retain the leaves and give time for their discoloration. The trees were dead before the leaves were brown. And they were betrayed by the intense and steady frost, aided by very unusual dryness of the soil. For more than one hundred days the soil and the streams were held rigidly bound by a frost so steady that there was but one day's cessation. Only in soils of a peculiar texture did any of the rains of winter penetrate the ground. The water ran over the icy crust. This unusual dry season was favorable to fruit trees and many other deciduous plants which had ripened well too in the dry fall. And when they were awakened from their rest by the opening of spring they were well rested and ready to open with vigor.

But evergreens do not rest in that way. Retaining their leaves, which are a coveting moisture all the while to a greater or a less extent, they want continual supply. They could not have in this case, because the frost, which had penetrated the soil fully four feet wherever it was compact and unmolested or unprotected by sod, of course held the roots torpid and con-gealed without any intimation throughout this extraordinary length of steady duration. No matter how hardy a tree may constitutionally be, it will perish if an axe or knife severs the connection between the roots and the leaves. These and the branches are then soon dried up and exhausted.
And if frost cuts off the connection and maim is the blockade long enough, the result is the same. It is only where deep beds of snow interpose and protect the soil from this extreme and protracted congelation that, in the far north, or on lofty mountains, even the very hardiest deep and strong rooting pines can maintain themselves.

But these hardy inhabitants of Arctic climes although they can conserve life beyond all other trees, yet when they lose it, lose it irrevocably. A deciduous tree, deprived of its leaves and branches at some timely season will sprout again from latent buds, leaving from a store of latent materials laid up in the cambium in the state and this they do as soon as moisture from the roots, and external warmth of spring, occur to favor the movement. A coniferous evergreen scarcely ever recovers in this way, after being stripped of its leaves. Even the deciduous conifers (the larches) do not sprout again after being cut down. All of this class of trees seem to live from hand to mouth. Always possessed of leaves, to they have a daily income, not a semi-annual one; they do not perceive the necessity of laying anything up for the morrow. Country Gentleman.

A YEAR WITHOUT A SUMMER.

A correspondent of the Boston Globe writes: While every one is speaking of the present season as being remarkable in its characteristics, I have gathered for your readers some reliable facts of the year 1816, known as "the year without a summer." Few persons now living can recollect it, but it was the coldest ever known through Europe and America. The following is a brief abstract of the weather during each month of the year:

January was mild, so much as to render fires almost needless in parlors.
December previous was very cold.

February was not very cold, with the exception of a few days, it was mild, like its predecessor.

March was cold and boisterous, during the first part of it; the remainder was mild. A great frost on the Ohio and Kentucky rivers caused great loss of property.

April began warm, but grew colder as the month advanced, and ended with snow and ice and a temperature more like winter than spring.

May was more remarkable for frowns than smiles. Buds and fruits were frozen; ice formed half an inch thick; corn killed, and the fields again and again replanted until deemed too late.

June was the coldest ever known in this latitude. Frost, ice and snow were common. Almost every green thing killed. Fruit nearly all destroyed. Snow fell to the depth of ten inches in Vermont, several in Maine, and three in the interior of New York, and also in Massachusetts. Considerable damage was done in New Orleans in consequence of the rapid rise of the river. The suburbs were covered with water, and roads were only passable with boats.

July was accompanied by frost and ice. On the 5th, ice was formed of the thickness of a common window glass throughout New England, New York, and some parts of Pennsylvania. Indian corn was nearly all destroyed; some favorably situated fields escaped. This was true of some of the hill farms of Massachusetts.

August was more cheerless, if possible, than the summer months already passed. Ice formed half an inch thick.
Indian corn was so frozen that the great part was cut down and dried for fodder. Almost every green thing was destroyed, both in this country and in Europe. Papers received from England state that it would be remembered by the present generation that the year 1816 was a year in which there was no summer. Very little corn ripened in the New England and Middle states. Farmers supplied themselves from the corn produced in 1815 for the want of the spring of 1817. It sold at from four to five dollars per bushel.

September furnished about two weeks of the mildest weather of the season. Soon after the middle it became very cold and frosty; ice formed a quarter of an inch thick.

October produced more than its share of cold weather; frost and ice in common.

November was cold and blustering.
Snow fell so as to make good sleighing.

The above is a brief summary of "the cold summer of 1816," as it was called in order to distinguish it from the cold season. The winter was mild.
Frost and ice were common in every month of the year. Very little vegetation matured in the Eastern and Middle states. The sun's rays seemed to be destitute of heat throughout the summer, all nature was clad in a sable hue, and men exhibited no little anxiety concerning the future of this life.

The average wholesale price of flour during that year, in the Philadelphia market, was thirteen dollars per barrel.
The average price of wheat in England was ninety-three shillings per quarter.

There is now in England a committee on habitual drunkards, which has discussed at great length and reported upon its interesting subject, maintaining, of course, that drunkenness is on the increase, although recently published statistics show that it is noticeably decreasing in so great a center of population as London. Among other recommendations made by this committee is one by which an habitual drunkard —that is, one who has been convicted of the offense of public intoxication three times within twelve months—shall be compelled to find sureties for his future good behavior. This is an appeal to the defendant's honor; if it ultimately asks him, will you go on a spree again and make your friends pay $10 for it?

The following note was sent to an undertaker by an unhappy widower:
"Sir—My Wife is dead and I want to be buried tomorrow, at water clock. I use water to dig the Hole—by the side of my too other wifes. Let it be deep."

A great many of the people can get a newspaper—the remainder of their know exactly how it should be done.
This is emphatically a newspaper.

THE CHINESE LANGUAGE.

In learning the English, a child commences with letters, but the elementary things in the Chinese are syllables, because what we should call letters are full fledged words. Instead of our twenty-six letters, the Chinese have about five hundred syllables, and these are combined together in an almost unlimited permutation, to form their fifty or sixty thousand words, each represented by a separated character! From the paucity of their syllables, they have to give them many significant meanings. Thus, for instance, Rev. S. R.
Brown informs us that the syllable chiao has two hundred and twelve meanings; ching, a hundred and thirteen; &c. Hence, if one Chinaman says to another simply chiao, he may mean any one of two hundred and twelve meanings, which is practically nothing; and he has, therefore, in order to limit it somewhere, to speak another syllable of kindred signification, either before or after it. These two syllables—sometimes three—he utters so quickly together that they form one word as much as in English, which fact makes it inaccurate to call Chinese a mono-syllable language.

In other words the arrangement of syllables in English is invariable; so that, in case of the word "incomprehensibility," for instance, we cannot write any of the two syllables together to form a new word; whereas the Chinese, supposing it had so long a word, though it very seldom has one of more than three syllables, could pick it to many pieces, and make a dozen new words. It is hardly too much to say that a Chinaman can unite together any two of the five hundred syllables which may have any kinship in meaning and make an intelligent word.

Let me use a homely illustration: Suppose two Chinamen sit down on opposite sides of a table, one of them with five hundred blocks, smeared with glue at both ends. He might pick up and show the other any one of them and he would at once call out any one of its dozen or hundred meanings, for each of which he would make a different character; but to communicate an extended or precise information, he must must glue them together in syllables or phrases. This is why the Chinese is not, as it is usually called, a monosyllable language. We can say in English, "I went to see the play," all in monosyllables; but it is impossible to utter in Chinese anything but the shortest monosyllables: as, ugo-shwo, "I say," she shwo, "who are you?" A rapid speaker in English does not separate his words by greater intervals than his syllables; neither do the Chinese. The error in calling the language monosyllable has arisen from the fact that in writing, the Chinese make one cumbersome and complicated but integral character for every word; but that word may, nevertheless, be spoken in two, three, or even four syllables.
—Greenland Monthly.

Rev's Donors.—Young men, beware.
The Buxage State of the 29th ult., says: George Leonard, a young man living in East Palestine, met with his death last Saturday night, under very strange and deplorable circumstances.
The particulars of the affair as we learn them are about as follows: Leonard and a young man named Solomon Meek, went to Springfield in the evening for the purpose of getting whisky.
They each purchased a jug of the "beverage of hell," and started homeward, taking an occasional drink. Meek says that all he can remember is that when they arrived at his mother's residence, Leonard was very much intoxicated, that he got out of the buggy, unlatched the horse, led him to the barn, and then "laid down to pleasant dreams" on the barn floor. His sister who had heard them drive up to the barn, went out some hours later, and found Meek lying in the barn fast asleep, and Leonard lying with his head out of the buggy quite dead. It is not known whether he fell and struck his neck against the spinal cord, or got into some position in which death was caused by strangulation. No inquest has as yet been held upon his remains.
Both of the young men are respectably connected.

Dr. Reid, of Terra Haute in a paper upon ancient dentistry, says:
"Among the ancient Greeks success was obtained in art. Cassellius was a dentist in the reign of the Roman triumvir, and gold wire was employed to hold gold teeth in position, and it does not seem then to have been a new art.
A fragment of the tenth of the Roman calendar, 150 B. C., has reference to the venting the burial of any gold with the dead except that bound around the teeth. Herodotus declares that the di-Egyptians had a knowledge of the di-scases of the teeth and their treatment mentioned as either filling or extracting teeth; but he specified that he would not polish false teeth with tooth powder. Lucian mentions of an old man that he had four teeth, and they were fastened with gold. These facts

The Yokohama Herald describing a recent Japanese festival, says: "The second day was occupied in exhibitions of the ingenious daylight fire-works, of the manufacture of which the Japanese appear to be sole masters. As usual, these consisted mostly of bombs, which, exploding high in air, discharged sometimes variously colored jets of smoke, and sometimes costly folded packages of wire and paper, which unfolded themselves into parabolas of great bulk and symmetrical design.
They were sometimes fish, which swam leisurely through the atmosphere to the ground, or snakes which writhed themselves away over the tree tops; or great birds that hovered like and motionally for an incredibly long time. Occasionally they took the shape of cottages, temples, human beings, magnified crests of diamonds, trees and flowers—almost anything that a lively imagination could suggest.
The smoke figures, however, were the most amusing. One of the most frequently attempted was a cattle fish, with a body of thick fallacious smoke, and arms of lighter hues. Of course the illusion was very brief, the wind not allowing the smoke to remain undisturbed for more than a few seconds; but while it lasted it was perfect.

From all indications there are decided evidences that the coming soldiers and sailors convention at Pittsburgh, on the 17th inst, Tuesday next, is going to be one of the most magnificent gatherings of the boys in blue since the close of the rebellion. Great preparations are making by the citizens to entertain the scores of thousands who are expected to be present, and participate in the greeting and rejoicing which inevitably will attend so grand a reunion. Massillon will be pretty well represented, as we have a few men left yet who carried muskets in the war.

According to appointment the straight out democracy met at Louisville on the 3d inst. Reporters inform us that nearly or quite all the states were represented, and there were some five to six hundred delegates in attendance. Old Virginia furnished the president of the convention, and a usual array of subordinate officers were appointed. Delegates went there with the idea of nominating O'Connor for president, and they did place him at that position, but he refuses to stick. J. Q. Adams, of Massachusetts was named for vice president, and he promises to stick if O'Connor does. A committee was appointed to wait on the nominees, who it is thought will consent to run when matters are fully explained. Many appear anxious to run O'Connor whether he consented or not, as they regarded it in the light of not of voting for a principle, having no idea of success. A few days will suffice to develop how the candidates will act. At the convention there were plenty of speeches, and at times exuberance of enthusiasm. The men who met there were in deep earnest, and were not disposed to be put off with subterfuges. No Greeley for them—they won't eat crow, or even hanker after it—they want the true Bourbon democracy or none.

Mr. Woodworth, as his many friends will be glad to know, is so far restored to health as to be able to address the people on political questions. In consequence of his inability from sickness to mingle among and talk to his constituents, as we before stated, he was sneered at as the dysentery candidate, but now that he is restored to a certain degree of health and strength some of his opponents express outward gladness that he is thus recruiting, but we can't help thinking that inwardly they don't rejoice very heartily. We know just where to find Mr. W. on the issue of the day, but from all we can ascertain, no one positively knows how Mr. Brown stands—that is, they don't know who he will support for president, for he don't seem to know himself.

Those Greeleyites who are now so enthusiastic for honest Horace say that not long since their present favorite did give them some hard hits, but they urge that they gave good as they received. The question now comes up did they and Greeley tell the truth of each other when they said all the hard things they could think of, or do they tell the truth now? It looks as if there were some wholesale fibbing on one side or the other, and which party is willing to acknowledge that it lied?

On the 3d inst. Vermont voted, and the republican majority for governor is put down at 25,000, or near it. Of some 250 members of the legislature the democrats have 21 and the Greeleyites none.

Last Monday the Maine election was held, and the majority for republican governor is reported from 15,000 to 17,000 or more. Republicans claim all the congressmen, and an increased majority of members of the legislature. Not very encouraging to the fusionists.

A convention of emperors has just been held at Berlin. It is said they fear the internationalists.

The notice for our coming fair must attract attention—it is visible. Several thousand premium lists, and in addition some twenty pages of advertising by our business men have just been issued from this office.

mines, will read with much interest by our citizens: MASSILLON, WHAT IT IS AND WHAT IT HAS BEEN.

Massillon, is an old town situated on the Ohio canal, in Stark county, which now boasts of eight thousand inhabitants. The whole town bears unmistakable evidence of its antiquity. The wharves and business places along the canal are mostly old, decayed, tumble-down places that must have come down through three or four generations to gather the antiquity of the present.

The streets of Massillon, unlike its wharves and old time block houses, improve with the age, owing to the variety and number of shade trees that line them on either side.

It is in the center of a large farming interest, and formerly obtained its prosperity from being a noted shipping point for the grain of the surrounding country. It is now just budding into the sunlight of increased life and enterprise. Coal in almost inexhaustible quantities, has been discovered in its immediate vicinity, and it is already regarded the center of a dense mining region, embracing many thousand acres of good coal land. We have taken the amount of coal produced and the number of men employed about the coal works in the vicinity of Massillon.

Willow Bank coal Co., employs about 175 men. Daily products about 400 tons.

C. H. Clark, about 40 men. Daily product about 100 tons.

Crawford coal Co., about 100 men. Daily product about 260 tons.

Williamson's new bank, just commenced shipping, 100 tons.

Lee & Steever, about 25 men. Daily product 50 tons.

B. McCue's bank, about 75 men. Daily product 150 tons.

J. B. Burton, about 100 men, daily products 200 tons.

Mullins bank, 100 men, daily product 200 tons.

Fulton coal Co., about 150 men, product 275 tons.

Chippewa bank, about 40 men, product 126 tons.

Aside from its mining interest, Massillon is quite a manufacturing town. It has two furnaces, which yield about two hundred tons of iron weekly. The "Valeno" furnace is owned by Lee & Steever; the "Massillon" furnace is owned by J. P. Burton.

The foundry and machine shop of Killinger & Co., employ about forty men.

Reynolds & Sisler, whetstone manufacturers, employ about 25 men.

Davenport's Iron Bridge works employ about 50 men.

Aside from those enterprises already mentioned, Massillon has three first class flouring mills, and a large wire weaving factory.

A large business is done in the manufacture of agricultural implements there being two establishments which give employment to four hundred and seventy-five men as follows: Russell & Co. 350.—Baillys works, 125 men. Massillon is an important railroad point. The P. F. W. & C. R. R. and the Lake Shore and Tuscarawas railroads centering here, while it is a terminus of the Massillon & Cleveland road.

Massillon derives much of its importance from its Stone Quarries, which produces the Massillon Stone, so celebrated throughout the country. These Quarries are three in number employing in the aggregate about three hundred and twenty-five men.

It has two first class, well patronized Newspapers, the Independent, a temperance republican advocate, and the American, independent in politics. A company is forming to build a rolling mill, but cannot predict the success of this movement. Certain it is, however that a little energy, on the part of its moneyed men would hasten the dawn of an era of prosperity, known only to such live active towns as Akron, Springfield and Youngstown.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.
Wednesday Ev'g, Aug. 28th, 1873.

The council met in regular session and was called to order by the president. Members present—Messrs. Willenborg, Folger, Altcruse, Gise, and Warwick.

Minutes of the last preceding meeting read and approved.

Mr. Altcruse from the committee on the subject matter of reporting a person for chief engineer of the fire department, submitted a report recommending the appointment of Mr. Lawrence Royer as chief engineer of the fire department, for the term of one year. (by ballot) of the members of the fire companies of this city.

Mr. Edward Richardson was recommended, and Mr. Snyder for second assistant engineer.

On motion the report was accepted.

Mr. Folger moved that the council proceed to the election of a chief engineer and his assistants for the unexpired current term—motion passed.

The following gentlemen were duly elected by a unanimous vote of all the members present.

Mr. Lawrence Royer for chief engineer of the fire department, Edward Richardson for first assistant engineer, and Andrew Snyder for second assistant engineer.

St. H. Seaman material to repair engine. house Willenborg & Erie amount of loan and interest.

1,000.00
On motion the council adjourned.

A special meeting was called to consider the matter of allowing the L. S. & T. V. R. W. Co. to make a cut across Main st., where said railroad crosses said street, thereby necessitating a change of grade of said street.

Members present—Messrs. Altcruse, Folger, Gise, Warwick and Willenborg.

Mr. Folger moved all the matters under the call be disposed of with. Motion carried.

Mr. Folger called for the reading of the Ordinance authorizing the crossing of the streets therein named, and the use of portion of Summit street by the Lake Shore and Tuscarawas Valley Railway Co., passed May 1872, which was read by the clerk.

Mr. Folger then presented the acceptance of the above entitled ordinance by the L. S. & T. V. R. W. Co., and signed by W. S. Stricker, President of said road.

Mr. Clement Russell stated that the acceptance had been in his hands since the date of its acceptance, the 23d of August 1872, and pleaded guilty of neglect in not having presented it to the council.

Mr. Folger offered the following preamble and resolution which was adopted:

WHEREAS it is represented to this body that the L. S. & T. V. railway Co. is transacting its business as guaranteed by an ordinance entitled An Ordinance, authorizing the crossing of the streets therein named and the use of a portion of Summit street by the L. S. & T. V. railway Co. Therefore, be it Resolved, That the standing committee on streets and alleys be directed to report forthwith all the facts in relation thereto.

Mr. Roach the engineer being present stated that the cut in the center of the street would be, when completed, about twenty-seven inches lower than it is now: he further stated that to make an easy grade on Main st it would be necessary to grade about one hundred feet west. The city solicitor advised that the matter be settled with as little embarrassment to the railway Co. as possible, but that the city and property holders be protected from damages.

The street and alley committee gave their consent in writing to said railway Co. granting them the privilege of making said cut across Main street, provided, that the said railway Co. immediately regrade said Main st, so as to be as easy as it now is, and to replace the gutters and side walks along so much of said Main st as it may be necessary to regrade and to leave all in as good condition as they now are, and to the acceptance of the city council and civil in all things save the city from all costs, charges, damages and expenses both to the city and property owners along said st.

Mr. Cronc moved that the comm on streets and alleys be instructed to regrade Main street to a regular crown between Br. Burdick's and Mill street.

On motion of Mr. Folger the motion was laid on the table.

The following amounts were allowed, and orders drawn for the same:

Massillon G. & Co for gas and erecting lamp posts $147.10 T. H. Seaman on salary $30.00 John Richards per order of J. H. Lewis 30.00
On motion—adjourned.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Is widely known as one of the most effective remedies ever discovered for cleansing the system and purifying the blood. It has stood the test of years, with a constantly growing reputation, based on its intrinsic virtues, and sustained by its remarkable cures. So mild as to be safe and beneficial to children, and yet so searching as to effectually purge out the great corruptions of the blood, such as the scrofulous and syphilitic contamination. Impurities or diseases that have lurked in the system for years soon yield to this powerful antidote, and disappear. Hence its wonderful cures, many of which are publicly known, of Scrofula, and all scrofulous diseases, Ucers, Eruptions, and eruptive disorders of the skin, Tumors, Blisters, Boils, Pimples, Pustules, Sores, St. Anthony's Fire, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Tetter, Scald Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, and internal Ulcerations of the Uterus, Stomach, and Liver. It also cures other complaints, to which it would not seem especially adapted, such as Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Fits, Neuralgia, Heart Disease, Female Weakness, Debility, and Leucorrhoea, when they are manifestations of the scrofulous poison.

Grant Torchlight Parade
AND
MASS MEETING, will be held at MASSILLON,
Saturday Night, September 14, HON. L. D. WOODWORTH,
our nominee for Congress;
A. J. RICKS, Esq., of Knoxville, Tennessee, and GENERAL ED. MEYER,
are expected to address the meeting. Come, everybody, and rejoice over the glad tidings from Maine.

Our Alliance temperance friends mean business. At a meeting of the Sunday ago, when the idea of raising funds to promote the cause of temperance was up for action—and that didn't hurt Sunday in the least—some three $3,000 were subscribed. This is meddling with other people's business to some purpose, and has for its object the protection of many a sufferer from intemperance. Such meddling is commendable.

It is, perhaps, rather hazardous to rejoice over a death, but in this instance there are some who would cry. Hardman's Clipper, which made such a clatter in favor of the Greeleyerats in vement—indeed, claimed to be the first to nominate the sage—like a fire bug has scintillated its brief existence and gone out.

The well known house of Jno. W. Pittcock & Co., Pittsburgh, are now prepared to furnish clubs with caps, capes, torches, and every variety of Goods for the coming campaign. Every person knows Pittcock, and knows also, that all orders will be promptly and satisfactorily. See advertisement in another column.

Saturday evening the Greeleyerats met at Madison Hall for the purpose of forming a club. Not a very large number were in attendance, but we understand some progress was made toward perfecting an organization. They have a fine transparency hung up in front of Madison Hall, which is the head quarters of the party.

The Grant club of this place is a live institution, and has its headquarters at the Stone Block. Frequent accessions of members are a boon, and a spirit of confidence and enthusiasm animates the members. They don't seem to be alarmed at the prospect of Brown being elected to congress.

The state fair, which was held four days of last week at Mansfield, was a grand success. It is estimated that some 20,000 people were present part of the time, and that the exhibitions in every department were creditable to the great state of Ohio.

Our young friend, Mr. H. Diehlmann, of this firm of P. & H. Diehlmann, has gone out for a new stock of clothing and all classes of goods in his line. So look for a big arrival of the latest and most desirable goods in this line.

Our old friend, Mr. John Hunter, of Alliance, who is connected with the rolling mill of that place as president, from some cause or other, so the Local says, was seriously caned one day last week, by one of the employees of the works, while a big crowd of his fellow workers looked on without interfering. The cane was a nice and head one, and is a present worthy to be sought for. Any body will stand such caning.

Some one has sent us the fifty-second annual announcement of the Medical College of Ohio, at Cincinnati. We are not very familiar with this institution, but observe that our old friend, Dr. James Graham, a native of New Lisbon, is dean of the faculty, a position we suppose to be the highest in a medical college. Many years ago Dr. G. read medicine with Dr. Fries, once a member of congress from this district, and afterward resided, and practiced, with his preceptor at the quiet village of Hanover. More than twenty years these physicians, natives of the same town, removed to Cincinnati, and since then both have become eminent as members of their profession. Dr. F. died some years ago. The medical college seems to be in a flourishing condition.

Bro. Hudson, publisher of that excellent paper, the Mahoning Register, Youngstown is so encouraged that he has decided to commence the publication of a semi-weekly. The lively town, which the Register has helped to build up, is becoming large enough to sustain a semi-weekly, and it won't be long ere a daily will spring up. During the present season it is said that five hundred houses have been put up in that city—which indicates that it is growing.

The Many friends of Rev. R. L. Williams, pastor of the Presbyterian church of this place, who has been absent some months in order to recruit his impaired health, will learn with pleasure that he returns to his home this week much recruited in health, even so as to be able to preach at the usual hours on next Sunday. It is expected that his friends, who are invited to do so, will welcome his return on to-morrow evening at his residence on Prospect street.

HON. A. W. PATRICK, of New Philadelphia, and Mr. L. B. BURROWS, will address the liberal republicans and democrats of Massillon, on Thursday evening of this week.
Quarterly meeting of the M. E. church, of this place, will be held, commencing on next Saturday, and continuing over Sunday.
Canton District Local Preachers Association will meet at Navarre, commencing on Friday the 20th inst. The proceedings will be of interest to all participating in the exercises, consisting of scripture readings, prayers, singing and instrumental music. Conveyance free will be had at Massillon depot on Friday and Saturday at 1 p. m.

Capt. A. J. Ricks arrived here safely on Monday last, and looks and reports himself in excellent health. The republicans will hear from him, as he is well posted in political matters, and is an experienced speaker to the people.

Our good friend, Wm. Shusser, of Tuscarawas, who so kindly remembered the printers a week or two ago by sending a basket of choice grapes, to this office, on last Monday repeated his visit, leaving more varieties, and all of them of excellent quality. No wonder his business is a success. For Mr. S. appears to be the champion grape raiser of Tuscarawas township, as he furnishes a great variety, and all of the best quality. We don't remember the names of the last lot, but know they were all good.

In coupling cars on Monday last George Shoemaker, an employee on the P. F. W. & C. road had his left arm badly mangled by the collision of cars. It is hoped he has not sustained permanent injury, as no bones are broken.

A fatal accident took place on last Wednesday afternoon, at the Willow Bank coal mine, resulting in the death of a son of Mr. Crescor, who was killed by the explosion of a charge in blasting coal.

Last Thursday morning the people of Kendall were surprised at finding one of their citizens dead, who committed suicide by hanging himself to a bed-post. Domestic difficulties are reported to be the cause of his rash act. He must have been very anxious to die, when he put himself out of the way by hanging to a bed-post.

Although the weather is yet, or very late, it was, so summing hot, our dealers here have fish and oysters for sale.

Hon. J. A. Ambler, member of congress from this district, is a very civil gentleman, and always demands himself with propriety, but just lately he kuklaxed us terribly, by sending the report of the congressional committee concerning the misdeeds of those southern murderers. This (not very brief) report consists of thirteen octavo volumes, averaging about 600 pages, in all some 7,000,000 pages. Of course we are under obligations to Mr. A. for this favor, but we don't have time to read those books all through before Grant is re-elected, and Greeley left to chop trees at Chippewa.

A basket picnic will take place on Saturday next, 14th, near Union Chapel, on the premises of J. E. Brown. The gathering will be organized at 9 o'clock A. M. and continue during the day. Music will be performed by the Wilnot band—also, good speakers will be present and address the people. Everybody is invited, as an abundance of provisions will be provided. A most pleasant time is anticipated.

We regret to hear that Edwin Jarvis, Esq., is very feeble health, and has been for some days. Advancing years are telling on him, as on many others.

Mr. Lockwood is about perfecting arrangements, at his place of grocery and provision business, on Erie street, opposite the Opera House, for an eating house or restaurant, where those desiring that be furnished with meals at all times, either single, by the day or week. In our growing population of 7,000 or 8,000 people there should, at least be one place of this description, and we hope Mr. L. will make the undertaking a success.

On last Wednesday evening a large delegation, consisting of some 200 men of this place, who are members of the Grant club, with capes, caps and torches, went to Canton in Wagons headed by the Massillon silver band, where hundreds of other tanner boys were congregated. They had a jolly, pleasant time marching—and there was too much of it—through many of the streets, and afterward listening to speeches by Dr. L. Woodward, candidate for congress, and others. According to the Rep. & Reg the boys had an enthusiastic time, and the whole performance made a favorable impression for the republican cause.

THE NEW FAMILY
SINGER SEWING MACHINE
The undersigned has opened rooms for the sale of this celebrated Sewing Machine, three doors north from McLain, Dangler & Co's store, Erie street, Massillon, O., where he intends to keep on hand a full assortment of Sewing Machines, needles, attachments and findings for all machines. Silks and threads of best quality.
This NEW FAMILY MACHINE is capable of a range and variety of work such as was thought impossible to perform by machinery. We claim and can show that it is the cheapest, most beautiful, delicately arranged, nicely adjusted, easily operated, and smoothly running of all family sewing machines. It is remarkable not only for the range and variety of its sewing, but also for the variety and different kinds of texture which it will sew with equal facility and perfection, using silks, tulle, linen or cotton thread, fine or coarse, making the interlocked elastic stitch, alike on both sides of the fabric sewn. Thus, heavier cloth, or leather, may be sewn with great strength and uniformity of stitch; and in a moment, this willing and never wearying instrument may be adjusted for the work of embroidery or ruffling, or almost any other work which delicate fingers have been known to perform.

Purchasers wishing to buy a machine are requested to call and examine our prices &c., before purchasing elsewhere.

136 Mulberry street, Newark, N. J.
has treated and cured thousands of cases of he above named diseases, and has now in his possession certificates of cures from every part of the country. The inhalation is breathed directly into the lungs, entering into the blood, it imparts vitality, it cures to every part of the system. The inhalation is not unpleasant, and the first inhalation often gives very decided relief, particularly when there is much difficulty of breathing. Under the influence of our remedies, the cough soon grows easier, the night sweats cease, the hectic flesh vanishes, and with improving digestion the patient rapidly gains strength, and health is again within his grasp.
The concentrated food rapidly builds up the most debilitated patient, presenting to the stomach food all ready to be assimilated and made into good, rich, healthy blood. The cough syrup is to be taken at night to alleviate the cough and enable the patient to obtain sleep. Full directions accompany each box of my remedies, which consists of One Inhaler, one bottle of Alternative Inhalant, one bottle of Soothing Febrifuge Inhalant, one bottle of Anti-Hemorrhagic Inhalant, one bottle of Concentrated Food, and one bottle Cough Syrup.
Price of box containing remedies, to last one month, $10.00. To last three months $25.00.
Sent to any address C. O. D. Pamphlets containing "A Treatise on Patients" free. Letters of inquiry must contain one dollar to insure answer, &c.

MANHOO!

How Lost How Restored.

Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the Radical cure (without medicine) of spermatorrhoea, or seminal weak- ness, nocturnal emissions, impotence, physical and mental incapacity, imposture, to marriage, &c. also consumption, epilepsy and fits, induced by self indulgence or sexual extravagance.

15th Price in a sealed envelope, 6 cents.

The celebrated author, in this admirable essay, clearly demonstrates, from a strictly scientific and practical point of view, the alarming consequences of self abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which the sufferer no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Sent, under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, prepaid, on receipt of six cents or the post stamps.

Also, Dr. Culverwell's Marriage Guide, Price 25 cents. Address the publishers,
